Later when she was dried out, she was placed on a smelter car and sent back to the city.

Las Cruces, N. M., May 17.—Capt. W. R. Fall died here yesterday morning, after an illness dating back several months. The funeral was held from the Poles undertaking parlors at 4 o'clock last evening. Rev. Thomas Mitchell conducting the service. There were many floral tributes, attesting to the high esteem in which the deceased was held in this community. Interment was in Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Capt. Fall was born at Frankfort, Ky., January 28, 1835, and was 78 years of age at the time of his death. His father, P. S. Fall, when 18 years of age, with 11 brothers and sisters, came from London, England, being one of the oldest Scottish clans, and settled in Kentucky and Tennessee. Capt. Fall, the father of the deceased, later became an eloquent preacher in the Christian church. His wife, a Miss Bacon, was a descendant of Sir Nicholas Bacon, chancellor of the court during the reign of queen Elizabeth.

W. R. Fall, the deceased, married Miss Edwina Taylor, of Clinton, Ky., who died here seven years ago. To this union were born three children, senator A. B. Fall, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. A. T. Pettey, of San Francisco, Calif., who served, and a son, Edwin S. Fall, who died four years ago, aged 38, and was buried beside the mother in the Odd Fellows' cemetery at this place.

Mrs. Pettey, the daughter, and Jack Fall, son of A. B. Fall, were present during the last days of the father and grandfather and ministered to his wants. Capt. Fall was an active one. He attained prominence as an educator in the south, having been at the head of several institutions of learning. His children received all their instruction in the home and are brilliant scholars.

Capt. Fall was a captain on the Confederate side in the civil war. He was a private scout for Gen. Forrest. He captured the famous spy, Miss Cushman. While a scout he was captured and the day set for his execution, but his connection with friends of prominence obtained his release.

In 1899, Capt. Fall and family came to Las Cruces, where for a number of years he edited a paper called the Democrat. For some time he was an assistant collector of customs on the Mexican border. His life was a very active one until a few years ago, when he became disabled by sickness and old age. He preferred to spend his declining years here, where he made his home for so many years, and where he had a host of friends.

CLINT MAN GOES TO TRIAL FOR LIFE

John Carr, charged with murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Arthur Rose, went to trial Friday afternoon before a jury in the 24th district court.

The incident out of which the killing is alleged to have grown, occurred at a saloon at Clint, Tex., last September. A dispute is alleged to have arisen between the defendant and the deceased, who was a bartender at the saloon, over a matter of change.

When the defendant left the saloon, Rose is said to have followed him, when Rose was stabbed. Rose was brought to El Paso for medical treatment and died here. It is claimed his death was the result of disobeying the instructions of the attending physicians.

The taking of testimony in the case was started late Friday afternoon. Saturday morning a number of character witnesses were introduced. The jurors trying the case, are: J. M. Amstater, N. H. Bowers, George White, M. H. Miller, G. Brockmuller, W. C. Taylor, J. H. McQuinn, O. A. Bell, A. L. Gibbs, W. S. Rye, H. L. O'Neill and H. Kayer. A special venire of 48 were summoned for the trial.

Inconsiderate Knot.

The drydocking of the schooner Forester, which put in at San Francisco the other day in distress, revealed the fact that the leak, the source of the schooner's distress, was merely a knothole. The knot in one of the bottom planks had fallen out, leaving a hole an inch wide by one and one-half inches long. To keep out the water that came through this knothole the Forester's pumps were kept going night and day and the vessel arrived with ten feet of water in its hold. The desertion of its hold by this faithless knot imperiled the lives of the schooner's crew and involved owners and underwriters in an expense of more than $1,000. The hole has been plugged up, and as this is all that ailed the Forester the schooner will proceed on its voyage as soon as the cargo has been loaded.
